Starter Boat House Screenshot by Nexy Watch Tutorial If you decide to build on top of a body of water, you could go with a boat design to look fantastic and functional at the same time. Since we are talking about easy Minecraft houses here, this video tutorial by Nexy is a quick way to set up a base above the water without spending hours laying the foundations. The interior is minimalist due to space constraints, leaving only the basic crafting table, a furnace, and another crafting station of your choice near your bed. Underground House Screenshot by Folli Watch Tutorial Do you feel like doing some digging? We have an easy Minecraft house underground that's easy to build but doesn't slack off in looks. This video tutorial by Folli even suggests an excellent interior decoration layout so that you can access everything you need in your Survival world. This is one of those easy Minecraft house ideas that you can place anywhere in your world since you only need to dig a bit into an elevated terrain to start. Once you replace the walls, floors, and roof blocks with Oak and Dark Oak blocks, you will appreciate the complete transformation into a cozy refuge in no time! Mushroom House Screenshot by DaphneElaine Watch Tutorial Why should we follow the traditional house design we're all familiar with if there's no gravity holding the blocks down? It's time to let your imagination run wild with a hint of cottagecore aesthetic with this easy Minecraft mushroom house by DaphneElaine. Here we have a less conventional house design made out of Mushroom blocks that you can find in the Dark Oak forest or, more rarely, in the mushroom fields biome. Become the fairy you always wanted to be! Related: Why not check out our 10 Best Minecraft Cottagecore Building Ideas list to start building your fairy empire at some point?

Starter House Screenshot by Sv Gravity Watch Tutorial The following video tutorial by Sv Gravity is perfect for players who want to put more effort into their first base without going overboard. There's enough space to place some chests, a Crafting Table, and a Furnace, and you can start growing your food immediately right at ground level. The great thing about this design is that you can use whatever wood combination you have at hand to create a nice contrast between the columns, roof, and walls. Related: We have more suggestions for your first home in your brand new world inside our 15 Minecraft Starter House Ideas list.

Two-Player House Screenshot by Sv Gravity Watch Tutorial Playing Minecraft as a solo adventure can be the perfect panorama to unwind after a hard workday. But sometimes playing with friends is the best way to experience the game. Here we have an easy Minecraft house design by Sv Gravity again, showcasing a simple yet functional layout with two separate ambiances and a Nether portal in the middle for easy access. The building project is small enough to build relatively fast if you have another player, so it's perfect if you're more interested in adventures! Compact House with Porch Screenshot by Cubey Watch Tutorial Spawning in a new Minecraft world tends to follow the same route. Find the nearest tree and start punching the logs right away. The following video by Cubey will guide you in creating a beautiful cabin made almost entirely out of Oak Wood blocks, so there's no need to move too far from your spawn point to gather all resources. The video starts with a 3x7 foundation area in the ground and adds some columns to create a lovely, cozy home where you can spend the night away from mobs. Also: You can always enhance your Minecraft house's looks with a beautiful garden straight out of our 15 BEST Minecraft Garden Ideas list.

Winter Cabin Screenshot by Balzy Watch Tutorial Winter in Minecraft can be all year round if you happen to stumble upon a snow biome. You can take full advantage of the cold vibes with this video tutorial by Balzy, which is a small and easy-to-build winter cabin featuring a chimney and beautiful interior decoration to make it a truly cozy home. Spruce blocks are the obvious choice for these bases since the color palette is a nice contrast against the white snow! We instantly think about hot cocoa and some comfort food in front of the fire. Tower House Screenshot by Sv Gravity Watch Tutorial The medieval vibe and build castles, towers, and bridges to emulate a majestic kingdom over time. But you can always start small and plan a simple building project to test your ideas. The following video tutorial, once more uploaded by Sv Gravity, works as the perfect addition to a village or just as a standalone edification. It's always pleasant to watch creators build their Minecraft house ideas in Survival so that you, too, can have a look into how the process would look like in your game. Also: We have compiled the ultimate list with 30 Minecraft Castle Ideas for any player who wants to give it a go and become emperor (or empress) of their kingdom!

Jungle Treehouse Screenshot by Soboo Watch Tutorial The jungle is a fitting spot to plan a treehouse and take full advantage of the gigantic trees to move around safely. We've included this Minecraft house idea by Soboo in our list because it looks stunning from the inside, and it doesn't require complex patterns or inaccessible resources to achieve it. You can quickly look into your surroundings thanks to the open walls and you can either climb to your base or use an Elytra to enter in style!

Cave House Screenshot by Smithers Boss Watch Tutorial There's no need to find the perfect flat spot on the surface to build an easy Minecraft house. With this video tutorial by Smithers Boss, you can use any naturally generated cave to dig and modify the area. The interior decoration allows you to have everything you need at hand on two floors, including a fully-maxed-out enchanting table. Of course, if you plan to build this in Survival, don't forget to place some torches inside!

Medieval House Screenshot by Cubey Watch Tutorial The medieval times are an almost endless source of inspiration for survival bases, villages, and more. However, you don't need to invest many hours of gameplay in emulating the same vibe if you want to take it easy. The following video tutorial by Cubey showcases a lovely, compact home where you can show off to your friends with its incredible design without relying on complex block placements. Modern Ocean House Screenshot by WiederDude Watch Tutorial We already have a list with 15 Best Minecraft Underwater Base Ideas, but some of the showcased designs may be a bit too over the top. Instead, we offer a more accessible video tutorial by WiederDude that will look amazing without needing to go overboard. It's only a matter of placing some Kelp underwater to place the first few blocks and, hopefully, have some good timing to avoid drowning. We strongly suggest using a Turtle Helmet or any other helmet with the Water Breathing enchantment. Birch Starter House Screenshot by Folli Watch Tutorial While many easy Minecraft house ideas prioritize using Oak Wood blocks due to their availability in any biome, some players may find Birch trees more often during day one. By following this video tutorial by Folli, you can put this type of wood into good use and build a lovely home with stairs leading to your bedroom and a small farm on the ground floor. We believe is a lovely design to place in any biome and decorate its surroundings with some vegetation. Also: We've compiled 50 Minecraft House Ideas because we know how difficult it can sometimes be to come up with a satisfying theme for our bases!

Small Modern House Screenshot by Watch Tutorial If you want to stick with the modern aesthetic but don't feel like constantly risking your life over the cliff's edge, we have a smaller alternative that could also work. The following video by Random Steve Guys is proof that you just need a small building area to come up with something creative. It includes a basement where you can fill it up with chests or continue expanding your house further into more complex structures if that's your future aspiration. We love such a clean simple bedroom with a nice view to the outside!

Survival House Screenshot by Heyimrobby Watch Tutorial Survival houses are a must-have for shelter and storage, especially when you're going through the first days. This beautiful starter house design by Heyimrobby relies on accessible resources like Cobblestone and Oak Wood to create a two-floor home. The original blueprint showcases ample windows for a nice view of your surroundings and a small farm area to grow crops. No area is left without a purpose, making it an ideal base for Survival players if you could infer that from the title. Also: Do you know which crops will fulfill your hunger more efficiently? What about animal meats or the different types of food recipes available in vanilla? Say no more and go straight to our ultimate list with the Best Food In Minecraft to find out. Underwater Dome Screenshot by TheNeoCubest Watch Tutorial Choosing the underwater to set a base is no small feat. You need to figure out how to create a pocket of air to work in your project correctly, and some players don't have enchantments or potions for breathing underwater. However, this doesn't mean that you need to go through the challenging route to emulate this Minecraft house idea by TheNeoCubest. You get a complete view of your surroundings, the access is quick to incorporate into the building, and it's the perfect solution for when you don't want people to find your secret base!

Beach Modern House Screenshot by Smithers Boss Watch Tutorial There's nothing like enjoying a nice walk on the beach and watch the sunset from the comfort of your home, right? With this easy Minecraft house video tutorial by Smithers Boss, you can have the perfect beach home as a getaway base if you want. While the resources needed aren't so accessible when you're just starting a new world, the design is as straightforward as it gets, and the instructions are easy to follow throughout the entire video. What a pleasant home to live in! Also: Once you're ready with your easy Minecraft house, maybe you want to look into our 80 Minecraft Building Ideas list to find your next building project! Our list is over now! Hopefully, we gave you some cool video tutorials to look into and explore new, easy Minecraft houses to emulate in your Minecraft world.
